De jazz is mijn redding

Mitzi Zilka: „In de jazz is geen enkele uitvoering hetzelfde."

Mitzi Zilka CD, 'Something Good' is indeed something very good

Castaneda's Dreams, Rick Wald, alto sax. Rick Wald, a new name to me, has gathered sixteen of New York's finest, to produce an "in-your-face" CD of very urban, original music. The soloists include modern day masters like Valery Ponomarev on trumpet and Gary Smulyan on baritone. The music both simmers and soars, making this a wide ranging, well performed session. It often goes in odd directions, but is so well constructed, it'll catch your ear. Self-produced, 2006; Playig Time: 73:25, ★★★.

Something Good, Mitzi Zilka, vocals. With a welcome, no-gimmick freshness, Portland's Mitzi Zilka rets a handful of songs in the company of some of 's finest jazz musicians. In addition to admired jazz standards like When Lights Are Low, Blue Bossa and Lady Bird, Mitzi finds some rare gems like Introduce Me To Your Friend, Short People and Gigi Gryce's Social Call. Mitzi's sincere renditions of these and others are a pure delight.

Fowler, Zilka discs impressive

Something Good, Mitzi Zilka, vocals. Zilka, the founder of the popular Portland Jazz Singers Concert Series, has released her second solo CD after nearly four years since her debut. The veteran vocalist has teamed up with some of Portland's best musicians for a refined take on classic tunes and some not so classic gems. Zilka possesses a sweet and clear voice, with laid back phrasing and a strong melodic sense. She also has a great sense of lyrics, penning original lyrics to classic tunes, like her smart dual-language take on the standard "Blue Bossa."
